

Logistic Solutions

From days of old, Aitken Spence has had an abiding interest and connection with maritime trade...as a shipping agent and marine insurer. It is a shipping, chartering and bunkering agent and is the first Sri Lankan organization to venture into Port Management outside Sri Lanka.

Aitken Spence is also a fully integrated logistics solutions provider, with a global reach and a highly respected degree of global competitiveness.

Its international air freight service portfolio includes consolidation services, fashion logistics (garments on hangers programmes), charter service management, order tracking and communication via preferred channels.

The Company offers custom-tailored programmes that meet client's requirements in terms of international freight procedures and transportation cost factors.

The Company's customs brokerage division is one of the country's leading service providers complete with EDI facilities linked to the Sri Lanka Customs, airlines and shipping lines. The integrated logistics services provided by this division enable clients to meet their supply chain logistical requirements, whilst serving as a single-source logistics window for all product and component movement, through the supply chain.

In keeping with the Aitken Spence ethos, here too, the Company's strategic partners include one of the world's leading international express and logistics integrators - TNT.

With an eye on the broader picture, the Group's logistics sector is closely involved in a Public-Private partnership on a national level, which seeks to develop Sri Lanka as a South Asian logistics and support services hub in the region. The salient features of this ambitious project will see the development of a new container port and a new international airport, the latter to be located in the south of the island.
